Ohio Regulations are Made Uniform: Limit Is Set At 50 Miles

(By Associated Press) COLUMBUS, June 6.—Gov. John W. Bricker today signed legislation making uniform Ohio's traffic laws, regulations and signs and increasing the speed limit from 45 miles an hour to 50.

The bill was one of 35 approved by the governor. He vetoed a measure which would have permitted the use of fuel oil for operating portable machinery in clay, limestone and shale mines. The bill, he said, duplicated provisions in the newly enacted mine safety code.

Other measures approved by the governor were:

Tightening restrictions on drivers' licenses and permitting the issuance of a permit to no one under 16 years of age unless his parent or guardian assumes responsibility for his conduct;

Creating a retirement system under which state highway patrolmen may be pensioned at an average of $100 a month when they reach the age of 55 and have 20 years' service;

Placing markers on state and national highways at points where Morgan's raiders crossed them;

Restoring civil service employees to their jobs when they have completed their military service;

Giving state-wide jurisdiction to notaries public who are attorneys;

Transferring from the state executive committee to the central committee of a political party the authority for settling disputes in county committees;

Providing that village councils may appoint marshals, who now are elected.

SHIP MEASURE SIGNED BY FDR

U.S. to Take Over, Operate 80 Foreign Vessels in American Waters

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, June 6.—President Roosevelt signed today legislation permitting the government to take over and operate the approximately 80 foreign ships now idle in American waters.

He immediately thereafter ordered the maritime commission to carry out terms of the act.

Thumbing through the order at a press conference, the President said it authorized the commission to:

Purchase, requisition, charter or take over all foreign ships lying idle in waters of the United States, including those of the Philippines and Canal Zone.

Operate any of them in the service of the United States directly or through an agent.

Charter or lease any of them for foreign and coastwise service, but not to any belligerent government without presidential approval.

Document the vessel under the laws of the United States or of a neutral nation of the western hemisphere.

Make just compensation to the owners.

Mr. Roosevelt said he did not know how many ships would be seized or which would be taken first. He said also he did not know whether any French vessels would be included.

DUTCH REJECT JAP DEMANDS FOR MATERIALS

Rebuff Seen In Reply To Orient's Order For War Supplies

"DISAPPOINTING", JAPAN REACTION

Tokyo Delegation Delays Action As It Awaits "Clarification"

(By Associated Press) BATAVIA, NETHERLANDS, EAST INDIES, June 6.—The Dutch delivered a generally unfavorable reply today to Japanese demands for a large share of the Indies exports of such war materials as rubber, oil and tin, but the chief of the Japanese delegation indicated he was not prepared to break off negotiations summarily, as he had intimated beforehand he would do.

Japs "Disappointed"

After receiving the 10-page Dutch memorandum in a 90-minute conference, Kenkichi Yoshizawa, chief of the Japanese delegation, said it was "disappointing" and he did not think Tokyo would find it satisfactory.

Although he had said previously that the negotiations were teetering on a "precipice", with implications of danger to friendly relations unless the Dutch substantially bowed to Japan's wishes, he said today he would have to study the Dutch reply more closely.

Yoshizawa explained this apparent change of position by saying:

"The Dutch answer leaves room for clarification and interpretation, but no further negotiating."

Indicates Recall

He said it was not impossible that Tokyo would recall him promptly, but meanwhile he intended to seek further clarifying comment from the chief Dutch negotiator, H. J. Van Mook.

The first reaction, Yoshizawa said, was this:

"We can agree on some points, but it is my impression that agreement will be very difficult on others."

Although the Dutch reply was not made public, reliable sources said it carefully steered a middle course, offering to maintain normal trade relations without furnishing Japan much of any important commodities.

Launch Campaign In U. S. For Army Service Clubs

Shown at the dinner in New York's Waldorf-Astoria, where the fund-raising campaign was formally opened, are, left to right, Maj. Gen. Irving Phillipson, commanding the Second Corps Area, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Walter Hoving, president of the U. S. O., and Captain Frederick G. Reinicke, of the 3rd Naval District. A quota of $2,500 has been set up for the Salem campaign.

AMERICAN WAY, SCHOOL THEME

Diplomas Awarded to 191 At Commencement Rites Here

With exercises based on the timely theme, "The American Way," 191 Salem high school seniors last night were awarded diplomas at the 77th annual commencement program in the school auditorium.

Their four years of work completed, the students heard speeches by three of the honor graduates, Lucia Sharp, Robert Ballantine and Louis Raymond, Jr., a violin solo by Robert King, a classmate, and a short address by F. P. Mullins, president of the board of education.

Benefits of Education

Nearly 800 people heard Miss Sharp, speaking on the subject, "Education and Culture," tell of the benefits of an American education.

"The founders of the Republic shaped its destiny and its plan of freedom by creating our free educational system. The freedom of America has been largely dependent upon the free educational system . . . and that freedom is now our most cherished ideal. Modern civilization, public education, good citizenship and culture are inseparable. Therefore," concluded Miss Sharp, "a threat to our schools is a threat to our form of government."

Miss Sharp, in addition to being tied for first honors with Ballantine, was active in many high school groups; she was president of the Theatricals, secretary of the Latin club, a member of Hi-Tri, and in the cast of both her high school class plays.

First Honor Graduate Robert Ballantine's speech on, "Work and Play," stressed the inherent values of the American way as it affects our occupational and recreational pursuits.

"The American way of life sets no . . ."

RAVENNA WORKERS RECEIVE WARNING

RAVENNA, June 6.—Seven thousand laborers at the huge Ravenna arsenal, given a pay increase from 65 to 70 cents an hour were admonished today that further labor trouble would bring abandonment of the project.

S. E. Hunkin of the Hunkin-Conkey Construction Co. said the increase, retroactive to May 26, followed Washington conferences with government and AFL officials.

The union had demanded a 90-cent rate in negotiations following a recent four-day strike, termed "unauthorized" by a spokesman of the Hod Carriers, Building and Common Laborers local.

Hunkin said laborers' wages would be reviewed for comparison with present living costs about Oct. 1 "when the project is one year old."

Lieut. Col. R. S. Chavin, commanding officer at the project, announced an increase in the work-week from 40 hours to six days and 48 hours in multiple shifts and stated it was "mandatory that work proceed at an accelerated rate."

YOUTH CONFESSES HANOVERTON FIRE

Lad, 17, Admits Writing Note, Burning Barn On John Sanor Farm

A 17-year-old Hanover township youth, arrested by Sheriff George Hayes at the instigation of district deputy fire marshals, and questioned concerning the firing of a large barn on the John Sanor farm near Hanoverton last April, confessed the crime and was given a hearing before Juvenile Judge H. W. Hammond Thursday.

Pending final disposition of the case the court ordered the youth held in a detention home for a two weeks' period.

The youth confessed starting the conflagration, which caused a loss of approximately $3,800, and also to have written the warning note which had been found in the barn on the morning of the fire. The crudely printed note stated "you will have a fire, probably in the day time."

Sheriff Hayes was notified of the warning, but at 6 o'clock that evening while members of the Sanor family were at supper the blaze broke out, quickly razed the barn.

CUT IN POWER IS THREATENED

Ickes Renews Advocacy of Daylight Savings for Entire Country

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, June 6.—Millions of Americans, rich and poor alike, today faced a prospect of going short on both oil and electricity because of the war abroad and this country's vigorous preparations for defense.

Secretary Ickes, defense petroleum administrator, warned that the great population of the eastern seaboard may be called upon, within a month, to forego the use of automobiles for pleasure, both on week days and on Sundays.

Power Curtailment Hinted

The Office of Production Management announced simultaneously yesterday that civilian curtailment in the consumption of power "in important areas" would be necessary, if sufficient energy was to be made available "in time to produce the supplies of aluminum and magnesium demanded by the growing aircraft and lend-lease program."

Ickes accordingly renewed his advocacy of daylight saving time for the whole country, as an emergency measure to conserve electric power.

Meanwhile, congress took cognizance of the threatened oil famine.

Use Of Vaccine In New Way Helps to Fight Common Cold

(By Associated Press) CLEVELAND, June 6.—Progress toward control of the common cold by use of vaccine in a new way was reported today at the American Medical association's convention.

The vaccine is sprayed into the nose, instead of being injected under the skin or administered by mouth—methods previously shown to be unsatisfactory.

Dr. Theodore E. Walsh of St. Louis said 74 per cent of patients observed over an eight-year period were free of colds following this treatment, tried after experiments on rabbits. Ten per cent showed marked improvement and 16 per cent were not benefited.

The treatment involves building up tissue immune to the disease-producing bacteria. After the vaccine of bacteria taken from the ears, nose and throat is applied to the mucous lining of the nose, both the blood and the tissues fight the germs.

The tissues build up white corpuscles to combat the invading bacteria, and the blood forms a counteractive substance.

Dr. Walsh said the nose has two defenses against the invading germs: The "front line," or the mucous blanket and the hairy tissue covering it; and the "second line" of natural immune responses of tissues.

Defense mechanisms sometimes are broken down by the "fifth column" activities of dry and hot atmosphere, metabolic disturbances and dietary insufficiencies.

The virus of the common cold was compared to "parachute troops." Its attack is important only in that it prepares the way for the advance of cold germs by destroying or paralyzing through the mucous membrane of the nose.

"The virus unsupported by the secondary invaders is short-lived," Dr. Walsh declared. "If there is sufficient immunity against secondary invaders, virus colds are self-limiting and usually are over in 24 to 48 hours."

He contended vaccine injections and oral administrations were failures because they cannot build sufficient protective substance in the vulnerable nasal tissue.

PEOPLE IN U. S. BEING 'DUPED' IS HIS CHARGE

Winant Did Not Bring Any Peace Offer From London, He Says

REVEALS TEXT OF 2 GERMAN ORDERS

Nazi, Fascist Sympathizers In U. S. Are Advised By Berlin

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, June 6.—President Roosevelt declared today that Ambassador John G. Winant had brought from England not even "a tenth cousin of a peace offer," and added that German propaganda was responsible for peace talk.

The chief executive was asked at a press conference whether he cared to say that Winant had brought no peace terms and he authorized this direct quotation:

"Not even a tenth cousin of a peace offer or anything like that or any discussion of peace."

Makes Accusation

"Absolutely nothing like it, provided you use this not as a denial by the President but as an accusation by the President."

Asked whom he was accusing, Mr. Roosevelt said persons being duped by Germany.

He volunteered the information that he had on his desk two orders which he said had been issued by the official German propaganda agency in Berlin to what he called Nazis and Fascists in this country.

The first order, Mr. Roosevelt said, told them to stress the idea that Germany had no thought of ever doing anything against any country of the entire western hemisphere.

The second, he said, ordered Nazi and Fascist sympathizers, as soon as Winant arrived back in the United States, to spread the story that he was bringing a scare-head story that Britain was about all in and was talking peace.

Not Said in London

Mr. Roosevelt asserted furthermore that it was an amazing coincidence that stories of the styes recommended by Germany had appeared in a certain type of newspaper in the United States.

To'd by a reporter that there was an impression being spread that Britain had said she could not last more than a few months without increased American help, the chief executive declared that this never had been said unless it was by Berlin. It did not come, he added, from a responsible source.

A reporter remarked that people would be shocked to hear that Germany was sending orders to this country, and he asked how orders were sent out and how the system operated.

Mr. Roosevelt declined to go into details, because, he said, it might disclose how he got his information. But it does come, he said, from the German propaganda bureau in Berlin.

ALMOST THREW OUT THE BABY

The squawk that has greeted the administration's bill for seizing property in the interests of national defense is justified.

Apparently what happened, according to official statements, is that the war department cooked up a drastic bill to handle a situation that called for drastic measures—defense production. Whether or not the department was acting for the White House is a moot point; President Roosevelt says it wasn't.

The fact is, nevertheless, that the bill as drawn would have given the government power wholly out of line with the constitutional principle of limited powers. In the hands of lawyers, New Deal lawyers especially, the authority proposed in the bill could be stretched to cover almost anything imaginable.

It is tragic that in the midst of their defense effort Americans should have to be mindful of the fact that Washington still is handicapped by a division of purposes. When recovery from the depression was the national objective, New Dealers retained the private objective of making life miserable for their pet peevs, the businessmen. Now that national defense is the national objective, it seems to be true that some of the defenders still may be more interested in their private fight than in the national effort.

What their part may have been in almost repeating the traditional head-on of throwing out the baby with the bath is indeterminate. In Washington, it seems to be taking a lot of explaining.

OIL TAKEN FOR GRANTED

Two things about oil which Americans haven't paid much attention to are becoming too important to ignore any more.

One is that oil now ranks along with guns, ammunition, and food as a military necessity. The other is that oil, though adequate in production, may at the same time be inadequate in supply.

The distribution of this commodity is something that has been performed so efficiently during the development of the motor age that there simply has been no need to think about it. Whether oil was supplied through pipelines, by trucks, or came by tanker, as in the east—now facing the prospect of a shortage because too many tankers were given to Great Britain—it always was there when it was needed. Oil has been one commodity at least in which the problem of distribution had been worked out so completely that it almost never occurred to anyone but an oil man to worry about it.

There is no danger of any actual oil shortage in the United States. This nation is better fixed in this respect than any other; last year, annual production in Germany, Hungary, Italy and Rumania totaled less than 16 days of United States production. There is, however, prospect of inconvenience due to bottlenecks in distribution caused, not by failure of the industry, but by decisions of government affecting the industry's operations.

THE STARS SAY:

For Saturday, June 7

THIS SHOULD be a particularly enterprising and productive day, with matters moving at high tempo or under high pressure or strain, according to important lunar aspects. It is a time for decisive and well directed action in promoting new ventures or infusing to renewed life old static or congested situations. There may be some opposition to this, but aggressive and determined action should give desired results. Corporations, political or fraternal organizations should respond and there may be social benefits and signs of good will as well. Pleasant correspondence is shown.

Those whose birthday it is have a very active and strenuous year ahead with the forecast of much productive and constructive work advancing upon cherished goals. In this there may be real support from influential personages of major organizations, offsetting the opposition or antagonism of elders, employers or superiors. New as well as stagnant affairs, as well as static investments may be stirred into activity and the social factors may be decisive also, with pleasant correspondence bearing fruits.

A child born on this day should be aggressive and impetuous, with firm determination to put over its objectives despite antagonism, this assisted by its agreeable social and friendly personality.

PROPOSES "NEW ORDER"

EDINBURGH, Scotland, June 6.—Former War Secretary Leslie Hore-Belisha proposed today recognition of common citizenship by Great Britain, the British empire and the United States as the "most hopeful assurance of the determination of the democracies to establish a new order."

Hore-Belisha also suggested that "the industrial effort of the British empire and the United States, in order to reach its most intensive pitch and fullest scope should be directed as the military effort of France and Britain was directed in the last war—by a single allied council fortified by expert knowledge."

The proposals were made in a speech before the Scottish National association.

The former cabinet minister sharply criticized the government's handling of the defense of Crete, which he characterized as a military disaster.

"We suffer defeat after defeat," he said, "and always for the same reasons—lack of appreciation, lack of preparation and imperfect execution of the project. Each reverse is glossed over by the same series of incompatible explanations, and the narcotic of false confidence in the future is invariably applied."

Hore-Belisha spoke without waiting for resumption of parliament, when a public debate on Crete will be the first order of business.

Continuing his criticism of the conduct of the defense of Crete, Hore-Belisha said:

"Among all the confusing reasons given for this tragic experience the most revealing and convincing is the bad confession by the spokesman of the air ministry that the idea of successful invasion of the island by air-borne troops was scouted."

"Naturally you do not prepare against that which has never entered your mind, although it must have been obvious from the first from what happened at Narvik, Rotterdam and elsewhere that this was the first contingency against which safeguards should have been taken."

"Now that we have lost Crete do not let us to create that kind of soporific propaganda which has told us that 'whatever the outcome of the Battle of Crete it has undoubtedly justified itself.'"

Failure to produce for the state and the war effort involves penalties, ranging up to life imprisonment and even death in Fascist Italy. Now we can see how far we are from a totalitarian system in America.

Stagecoaches and bicycles have largely taken the place of railroad trains and automobiles in France. If that were the only respect in which the clock had been turned back there, it would be a happy France.

Women organizing to keep up the morale of soldiers in the camps would find a few hard-boiled sergeants helpful.

In a few weeks the little boys can begin experimenting with that interesting pastime of eating green apples.

The announcement that Max Schmeling landed by parachute in Crete clears up the rumor that the Nazis were landing tanks on the island.

HINTS ON WARM WEATHER EXERCISES

Results Are Best If They're Not Overdone

By LOGAN CLENDENING, R. D.

Yesterday we discussed the physiology of exercise. It doesn't do all the things that the big muscle boys say it does, but it stimulates the chemical exchanges of nutrition and probably burns up some deleterious by-products that have accumulated in the course of our ordinary slothful lives. It exercises and improves the tone of the heart, stimulates the skin to action, promotes a feeling of well-being, and improves appetite and sleep.

The question comes as to what kind of exercise to take. As summer begins it certainly seems logical to take advantage of the out-of-doors which is the healthiest and pleasantest form.

Special Exercises

Exactly what kind of exercise you take does not make very much difference so long as you don't try to over-do it, and take just enough to leave you pleasantly tired. Walking, golfing, tennis, rowing, baseball, any out-of-door activity that keeps you going at a moderate clip for an hour or two when you are over 40 or at a fast clip for two or three hours if you are under, is good enough.

There is no virtue that I can see in special exercises to attempt to develop special muscles. In the first place, they are monotonous and boring and, therefore, you soon quit them. In the second place, no added advantage comes from the development of muscle groups.

I remember the famous Sandow, who had developed his muscles so that every one of them showed underneath his skin. The little fibers of the intercostal and deltoid each stood out as if they were separate muscles, but he was not any healthier than anybody else. In fact, he died when he was 58 years old, which is by no means a record. Probably he was born with big muscles and had the famous checkerboard pattern of the abdominal and thoracic muscles, so did not have to work very hard to attain his development. Probably, also, he was really not as strong as other guys who got tough out-of-doors and who seemed to have smaller muscles.

The physical culture enthusiasts and gymnasium conditioners have a lot of patter about special exercises, most of which has no scientific foundation.

Everybody also warns the man over 40 about taking excessive exercise. This, again, in my opinion, is unnecessary. I have found that they usually limit themselves automatically so no harm is done. The caution to a fellow of 55 not to run a hundred yards or do a hurdle race usually comes as a welcome relief to him because he doesn't want to do it and couldn't do it even if he wanted to.

Heiser's Advice

Doctor Heiser in his recent book warns as follows:

"When people say to me, 'Doctor, is it safe for me to exercise at my age?' I answer, 'Yes, if you have no heart disease and if you will always stop when you are winded or feel fatigued.' The heart sometimes warns you by fluttering or a sharp pain, but it is better not to make that warning necessary. It is easy to overestimate our endurance, especially when we have not been taking our regular exercise, and it is better to go too little than too much."

You correct faulty living habits—unless liver bile flows freely every day into your intestines to help digest fatty foods and guard against constipation.

SO USE COMMON SENSE! Drink more water, eat more fruit and vegetables. And if assistance is needed, take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. They not only assure gentle yet thorough bowel movements but ALSO stimulate liver bile to help digest fatty foods.

Among other things that are claimed for exercise, which I do not believe, is that it relieves constipation. As far as I can find by careful check-ups, it does nothing for the condition at all. Nor do I believe that exercise alone is a good way to attempt to reduce weight. It takes an enormous amount of exercise to lose ten pounds.

But you do not need these wise-acre pieces of advice about exercise. The best thing to do is to get out in the air and get some of it your own way.

"That Uncertain Feeling", a comedy-romance at the State tonight and Saturday, introduces a new screen trio in Merle Oberon, Melvyn Douglas, and Burgess Meredith.

The comedy concerns a happily married couple who find a psychoanalyst and his inhibited pianist-patient a menace to their marital bliss. The wife, bored by a comfortable but uneventful married life, develops a case of chronic hiccup which a psychoanalyst tells her is the result of subconscious unhappiness in her marriage.

On a visit to the analyst she meets one of his patients, a concert pianist who can play only when he has no audience. His views and his interest in her attracts her and he becomes the "new interest" which first amuses and then distracts her husband.

The husband's efforts to win her back and the situation's amusing progress is skillfully handled by Director Ernst Lubitsch and played more than passing well by Meredith, Miss Oberon, Douglas and Mowbray, who has the role of the meddling quack analyst.

New British Program Embraces All Sports

LONDON—Plans are being made, it is reported, to form an Inter-Alleied Sports association in Britain to embrace all sports.

So far these plans do not appear to have reached the official stage, but details are being drawn up.

It is realized that French, Belgians, Dutch, Norwegians, Czechs and Poles now in Britain require relaxation to help dull their painful memories and for this reason it is being proposed to put sport for them on an official basis.

Controlling bodies of various sports in Britain probably will be asked to cooperate.

The Allies are eager to direct their sports with official sanction, as has been the case with many soccer matches which have been played during this season.

The British Football Association has not only extended sanction, but also has assisted considerably in arranging fixtures.

Athletics and swimming matches are likely for the summer. The famous Dutch world champion swimmer, Wille Den Ouden, is in Britain and may appear in exhibitions.

EL PASO, Tex.—Burglars broke into the offices of an El Paso coal company, broke the knob off a safe and took $30 in cash, leaving a note that said: "You have contributed to the Greek cause." But the Greek war aid committee isn't expecting the $30.

KANSAS CITY — Mrs. Florence Holcomb is a nature lover but she is all for forming a Send-Squirrels-Back-to-The-Country league.

A dozen or so chattering, barking and fighting squirrels have taken over space in the second floor ceiling of her home. At night the din is terrific, sleep impossible. There'll be more noise in the dawn but Mrs. Holcomb won't mind. Her appeal to Mayor John B. Gage has borne fruit. Police have been told to shoot the furry invaders.

LONDON.—Gas war is to be waged on the millions of rabbits which are costing Britain heavily. Damage done by rabbits to food production is out of all proportion to their value as food, and R. S. Hudson, minister of agriculture, is determined that they shall be eliminated.

Ohio Guardsmen Find Hot Weather Maneuvers No Fun

(By Associated Press)

CAMP CLAIBORNE, La., June 6—Ohio's national guardsmen already miss their permanent base at Camp Shelby, Miss.

Here for a month of maneuvers under simulated war conditions, some 10,000 Ohioans are sleeping on the ground, sweltering in the heat, fighting new pests, and traveling miles for water in which to bathe.

Quartered in an area on the edge of Camp Claiborne, near Alexandria, the soldiers of the 37th division are sleeping two to a "pup" tent and have polished up their kits to stand in line again when mess call sounds.

But the Ohioans found rumors of swampy, mosquito-infested fotten land in their new training area grossly exaggerated.

Located on the edge of Kisatchie National forest, the camp overlooks tall pine, red oak and maple timber. Swamp lands exist in many places but are not a dominant topographical feature.

So far, mosquitoes are only little more in evidence than normally in Ohio, but "red-bugs," tiny red insects that burrow beneath the first layer of skin, trouble some of the men.

Some of the Ohioans attack the bug problem by dusting their skin with sulphur as a preventative; others build resistance by taking sulphur tablets which are supposed to discourage the pests.

An unusually prolonged dry season in this region has caused a water shortage. And water for bathing purposes is not always easy to obtain. Periodically truckloads of soldiers are carted to nearby Camp Claiborne where a newly-constructed shower accommodates nearly a hundred men.

The water is cold but the weather is hot so the men don't mind.

Since When?

ANTLER, Okla. — A farmer driving without a tail light and with only one headlamp was stopped by Highway Patrolmen Jess Faulkner and Charles Reese.

The officers asked to see his driver's license.

"There's my license tacked on the back," came the reply. "I never heard of a driver's license. When did they pass that?"

The law was enacted in 1937.

CITE PROVISIONS OF TEACHERS ACT

COLUMBUS, June 6.—Walton Bliss, secretary of the Ohio Education association, asserted today that school boards in districts affected by the new teacher tenure act must rehire all teachers with five or more years' consecutive service in that district under contracts giving them indefinite employment.

In a special bulletin to teachers he said this was mandatory under the five-year provision "to offer protection against widespread dismissal of teachers whose record of service is long enough to have doubts as to their effectiveness resolved in their favor." The provision is effective only the first year.

E. N. Dietrich, state director of education, earlier expressed belief that veteran teachers who had not already received contracts for next year could be dismissed. He said inquiries from school officials indicated many teachers, hired in the past on one-year contracts, would be dropped.

Continuing contract provisions of the act apply only in districts of 800 pupils or more. The legislation, signed Monday by Gov. John W. Bricker, becomes effective Sept. 1.

Bliss emphasized that school boards retain the right to dismiss any teacher for just cause, such as "gross inefficiency or immorality, or for wilful and persistent violations of reasonable regulations of the board of education."

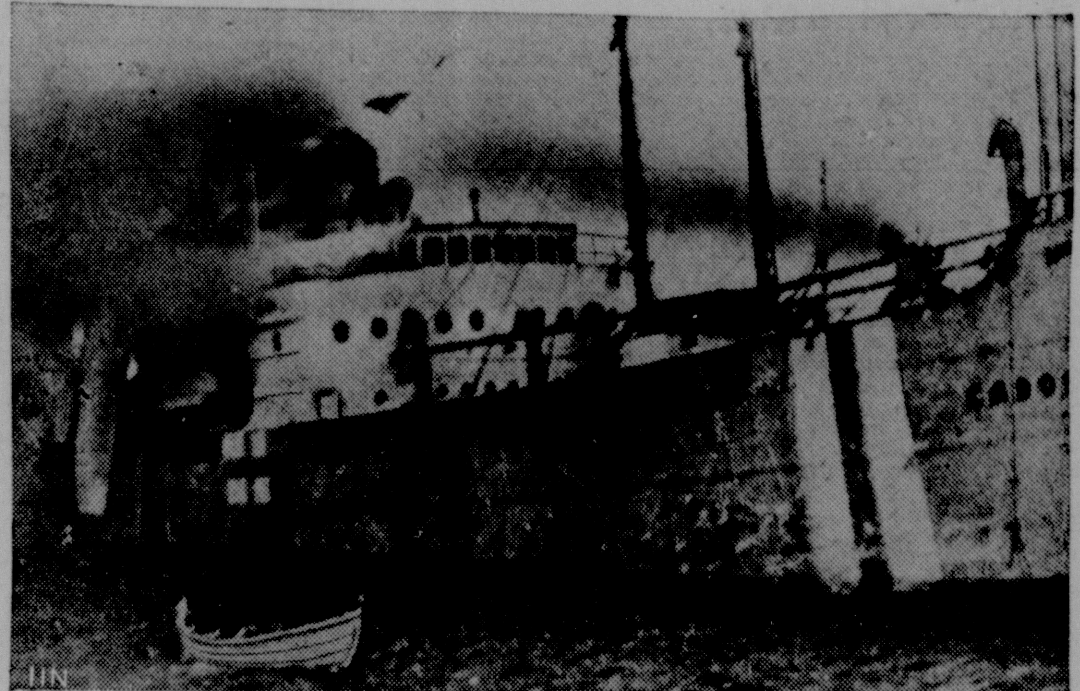

Dietrich has referred to the attorney general several questions of interpretation, including the effect of the continuing contract upon regulations by local boards against the employment of married teachers.

Captive

LIMA, Ohio.—Ruffed, frightened, but apparently uninjured, a carrier pigeon was removed here from inside a lense-shattered headlight of an eastbound Pennsylvania railroad passenger train, which attains speed of 70 miles an hour.

Trainmen said the bird must have been struck by the locomotive between Port Wayne, Ind., and Lima stations.

En Route to U. S., Bombed by German War Planes

Although it prominently displayed its neutral markings, this Finnish freighter, Carolina Thorden, was bombed by German war planes off the Norwegian coast while en route to the U. S. When this picture was taken, the ship was burning and its crew rowing away in a lifeboat. Note the lifeboat hanging vertically from one of the davits on deck.

ROCK AND CAPE OUTFIT
Pattern 4715

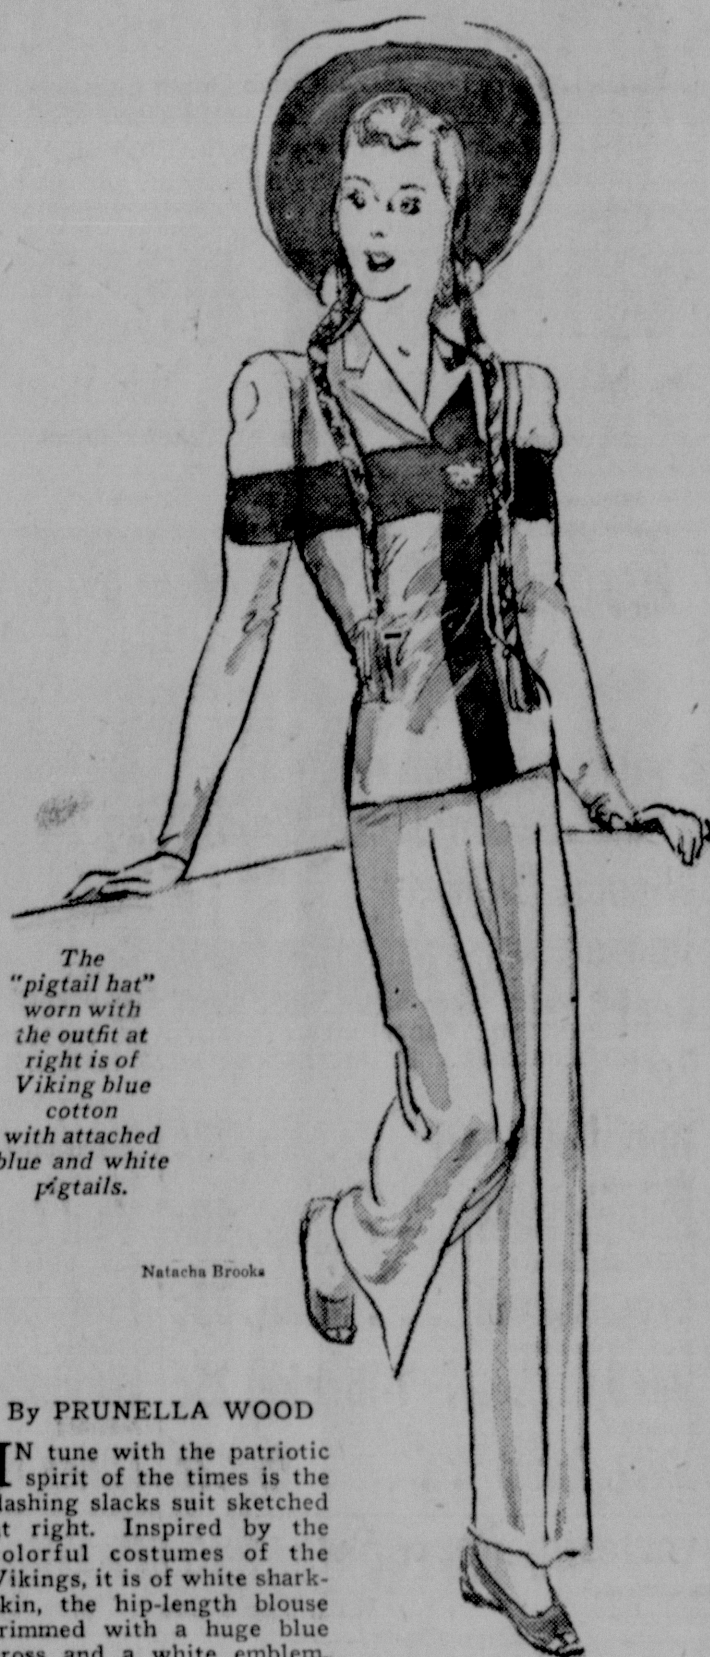

Thank your lucky stars for discovering this Anne Adams Pattern. 4715—it includes a whole wardrobe of bright summer clothes for your small girl and boy! The little frock is in simple paneled style, with a comfy square neckline and straight-nerve front and back yokes. First make a party-time style in a sheer dimity, voile or dotted Swiss, with lace edging. Then stitch up a playtime version of colorful cotton—a checked gingham would show off the bias-cut side panels nicely. The yokes and brief puffed sleeves may be in fresh, light contrast; the sash and button trim are optional. Now complete the outfit with a smart military cape that's in just three pattern parts, with no side seams.

Pattern 4715 is available in children's sizes 2, 4, 6, 8 and 10. Size 6, dress, takes 2½ yards 36 inch fabric and 1½ yards lace edging; cape, 1½ yards 39 inch.

Even Indians Will Not Be of Use In This War

TULSA, Okla.—Government agents in this Indian country are not overly optimistic that the Indian languages are going to be very helpful to the army signal corps in the transmission of secret messages.

The reason is that they don't believe the Indian languages and dialects would fool enemy agents any more.

Twelve Comanche Indians are being trained at Fort Benning, Ga., to work as relay men for the signal corps. The Indians are supposed to relay messages to each other on the telephone in their native tongue—a gasping, grunting language which relatively few persons outside the Comanche tribe are supposed to understand.

The trick worked in the latter months of the first World War. Wire tappers were amazed to hear on their telephones a kind of gibberish the like of which they had never encountered. Federal men aren't so sure it would work nowadays.

G-men here admitted that someone may have "pulled a fast one". Several months ago, a crew of "scientists" came to Oklahoma, home of countless Indian languages and dialects, and worked for weeks, recording the various tongues with a portable transcription machine.

Since then, authenticity of the "scientists" and "students" who accompanied them has been questioned. Some sources believe the men may have been recording Indian languages to meet just such an eventually as planned by the signal corps.

Holiday Hunch

RICHMOND, Va.—Roland Warren Smith, of Richmond, has a hunch he will be called to military service the Fourth of July.

On New Year's Eve he was notified of his local order number in the draft. On April Fool's day he received his questionnaire. On Memorial day the postman brought his notification to appear for his physical exam.

Seeking Chinese Terrorists

Strikers Let Army Men Fly With Finished Planes

Pilots of the U. S. army air corps are pictured entering the strike-closed North American Aviation plant at Inglewood, Cal., to take delivery on completed combat trainers which they will fly to army air fields. CUT THREATENED IN POWER SUPPLY

Ickes Renews Advocacy of Daylight Saving For Entire Country

The house yesterday hurriedly passed a bill, requested by President Roosevelt, to facilitate construction of pipelines that would run oil to the east from Texas and Louisiana, and probably from Illinois and other sources.

Under the measure, which now goes to the senate, government agencies or private concerns would be empowered to use the right of eminent domain for obtaining rights-of-way to push construction of any pipeline the President designated as vital to defense. Powers in the measure would expire June 30, 1943.

The OPM statement on the anticipated electricity shortage declared that the views on power expressed by C. W. Kellogg, president of Edison Electric Institute, who is serving as OPM chief of power, were his individual opinions and did not represent the position of OPM.

This extraordinary disagreement of the OPM with the views of its power director followed closely a statement by Ickes that Kellogg "certainly was misrepresenting the facts" when he said in a speech at Buffalo that "the power situation will be found to have been adequately provided for."

Kellogg, at Buffalo, replied that his statement had been made only after "careful preparation" and that he would let it "stand for the present."

The OPM announcement was brief and did not specify in what "important areas" curtailment of civilian use of power would be necessary.

Is British Island of Cyprus Next on Nazi List?

View of fortifications on the island of Cyprus

Fearing a German attack, the British have ordered the removal of women and children from the island of Cyprus, a Mediterranean island near the Gulf of Iskanderun. Nominally a part of the Turkish empire, it is virtually a British possession, governed by a high commissioner. It serves as a British naval base. It lies between Crete, now taken by the Germans, and Syria, French-ruled Middle East state which might be the next battleground of the war.

EVERY WOMAN WEARS EARRINGS, MATCHING PINS

Young and old women are going in for earrings this season, whether they wear their hair in a long bob or put it up. One of the smart new costume jewelry designers has made dress pins that match earrings. The pictures above show some of his designs and the way in which they dress up a costume. At the left, dainty pansy earrings are matched by a row of the posies on the dress. The pansies are carved crystal and gold with jewel centers. For business a streamlined chevron brooch and earrings are shown inset at center. They come in red, white and blue enamel on gold. The third set, right, is perfect for dressing up a basic dress for an afternoon date. The set consists of a spray pin combining the shell and coral motif together with a pansy of lucite and gold on green iridescent and rhinestone leaves, and, of course, earrings to match.

AND HE ONLY GOT A SPRAINED WRIST

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y.—Mayor Robert P. Anderson's safe driving campaign went on wonderfully for a while.

He chased speeders in his own automobile and arrested them.

Then one night the mayor skidded off the highway in his car, mowed down six guard posts, toppled a power line pole, snapped the wires carrying 33,000 volts and plunged three communities into darkness, overturned and dropped down an embankment. He suffered a sprained wrist.

The mayor was not chasing anybody.

Idol Is More Painted Even Than U. S. Women

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—To a large Oriental idol on the Union college campus, it has been just one coat of paint after another.

The idol has been the victim of class fights over three generations. It was presented by a Union graduate who was a missionary in China.

The object of the scraps has been to paint the idol with the class colors, until now the massive stone carving is covered over an inch deep with more than a thousand coats of paint.

SYNOPSIS

As war clouds thicken over Tientsin and other scenes of international friction in China, Howard Nevins, ostensibly an American big game hunter, reaches Honolulu. Within the hour of his arrival, he receives a mysterious phone warning, a woman's voice urging that he return to the States at once. Annoyed but undaunted, Nevins attends a dinner tendered by wealthy Abner Polk. Prominent among the guests is Baron von Rentner, a reputed German industrialist. Alluring Phedre Renore as hostess is the subject of considerable sotto voce discussion. Polk assured Hideyo Kanamura, prosperous Japanese merchant, that "there will be no war," but others present are jittery and Coast Artillery Lieut. Wilson Clark explodes, almost assaulting Kanamura.

CHAPTER THREE

Phedre Renore abruptly turned her beautiful coiffured head towards Nevins, and when his eyes met hers, slim white shoulders rose in a Gallic shrug.

"Voilà!" She made a pathetic little face, and her eyes, which somehow seemed older than the rest of her face, flickered to where the Japanese, coldly reserved, and the artillery officer, red and ruffled, stood glaring at each other. "That is how a war begins, no?" she queried. "Someone brings in a piece of paper with black marks on it and then—war!"

A number of not unattractive wrinkles appeared at the corners of Nevins' eyes.

"Yes, mademoiselle, that is the worst of it. I suppose that all over the United States and Japan people will be wishing they could kill somebody. We'd better break this seance up," he added. "Judging by the way our friend Clark and the Japanese gentleman are glaring at each other, Mr. Polk will have to buy a new grass rug tomorrow."

"Then in the interests of peace we are allies?" asked the French girl gravely. When Nevins nodded, her yellow-clad figure moved swiftly over to where Mr. Hideyo Kanamura was smiling mechanically but with dangerous glints in his dark eyes.

"Come," she said gently, "I want you to see that famous garden of Mr. Polk's—I've always been told that the Japanese are passionately fond of flowers and gardens."

Nevins, his face an emotional blank, said in a low voice to Lieutenant Clark, "Drop it!" Then, in a louder tone, "I wish you'd advise me as to where I can get the best fishing. You see, I've come all the way out from the mainland to enjoy it."

Darkly the artillery officer regarded the rich Japanese ship chandler's retreating form before replying. "Oh, you'll get lots of mahimahi, swordfish, and tuna."

Nevins' pleased laugh formed an effective anodyne for the recent hostility.

"Talking fish?" broke in Abner Polk. "Then Lord help you, Lieutenant, On the Malolo he wouldn't talk of anything else."

"You seem to know Mr. Nevins quite well," observed Baron von Rentner neutrally, and it seemed that the thought was not entirely pleasant.

Polk's head with its crest of stiff gray hair inclined curiously.

"Oh, yes. On the Malolo we had many pleasant conversations."

"About what?"

"About fishing, my dear Baron, about fishing. Speaking of amusements, I hear that Honolulu's got you."

Baron von Rentner stared. "Got me? Please speak sensibly."

"I mean that while I was away you fell in love with a fair lady—"

"I mean," said Polk grinning maliciously towards the Baron, "that ... you fell in love with a fair lady ..."

a very interesting lady." Malice was in every note of the speaker's bland voice.

Nevins grinned as he realized that the steel king had adroitly put his forbidding friend on the defensive, and he was amazed to watch the appearance of a furious blush which crept into the German's harsh features and made the two faint scars along his left cheek glow with sudden color as he said:

"Really, Polk, I must beg you to leave Miss—." He checked himself just in time to clip off the girl's name; the Japanese was standing nearby.

"Oh, sure, Mr. Polk, I know all about her," Lieutenant Clark broke in with all the blundering good nature of a muddy-pawed puppy at a lawn party. "She's a swell gal. And say, Nevins, you ought to see her in a one-piece bathing suit!"

The German flushed still more and drew his square body into an almost menacing attitude. "She is a most charming lady, and I prefer—"

"Okay," agreed Lieutenant Clark with undeniable enthusiasm. "I think she's swell, too. You should have heard the boys down at the Officers' club. If she stays here any longer on Oahu she'll have about ninety per cent of the officers shot to blazes!"

Nevins eyed the strangely enthusiastic young man almost coldly and said: "Queer, but I know personally of two such officers—"

Unaware that Lieutenant Clark had suddenly turned pale, Abner Polk went on: "I'd like to meet such a fascinating lady—I've a weakness for 'em."

Baron von Rentner smiled thinly as he placed a cigar between his pale, thin lips and stated: "You will have that pleasure before very long, liber friend. Tomorrow night I am bringing her here for the dinner."

Polk flicked the ash from his cigar and, eyeing the Prussian steadily, asked: "She doesn't happen to be the same girl Armand Dunant was raving about in Paris last year? What was her name?" Impatiently he snapped his fingers. "Ah, I've got it—Stefan! That was it, Nadia Stefan."

There sounded a tiny crash of shattered glass, and Kanamura promptly burst into profuse apologies.

"How very careless of me! Please permit that I replace it—"

Good-naturedly Polk shook his handsome gray head.

"Oh, that's all right. What is it, Felipe?"

"Misser Bruce Kilgour," announced the owlish Filipino butler just as there appeared in the doorway a man dressed in gray flannels, with a red face and hair and close-clipped mustache of sandy red.

"Hello, Mr. Polk—found your chat at the club," he drawled. "Fancy I'm a little early—what?"

"Glad you could make it, Kilgour," said Polk. "This is Mr. Kilgour, gentlemen. He's dropped in for a rubber of bridge." Mr. Polk's muscular right hand included the entire company. "Those of you who don't know him will have to introduce yourselves."

The newcomer looked swiftly around the table, and his alert searching eyes paused an instant when they encountered the tall white figure of the big game hunter smiling broadly as he talked to von Rentner. Then he turned to acknowledge the artillery officer's greeting.

"Hullo, Kilgour," Clark said, and held out his hand. "Any more excitement in the old burg?"

The Englishman's reddish head inclined solemnly.

"Ra-ther. I don't like the look of things at all." He paused, and silence spread like a widening ripple over the glittering room. "There are crowds in every bloomin' street, and the Times is postin' bulletins every half-hour. I say, Mr. Polk, I hope your people will keep their heads."

"Oh, they will; we're not so excitable as we Americans once were," Abner Polk muttered irritably. "And now let's forget about it—as long as we can." He strode heavily forward and jerked aside the great black-and-red batik curtains at the far end of the dining room. "We'll have our liqueurs and bridge down on the flat with the ladies—it's cooler there."

Von Rentner agreed. "That is a very good idea."

DANVILLE, Va.—Unable to find the answer himself, Chief of Police George Price has asked his lieutenants to solve a department mystery.

Studying records on the performance of department cars, Chief Price discovered that—according to the records—police cruiser No. 4 operated throughout the month of May, traveling 900 miles, without using any gasoline.

PLASTIC PLANE IS CALLED 'BEST YET'

Designer Claims He Can Make Strongest Plane In 5 Minutes

(By United Press) GREENFIELD, N. H.—He says he can punch out an airplane—ready for installation or motor controls—in five minutes.

What's more, he says his plane will stand greater strains and handle better than any other aircraft on the market. And Harry Atwood ought to know. He isn't drawing regular royalty checks from nearly every major air line in the world for wool-gathering.

Thirty years ago Atwood, an engineer fresh from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology classrooms, made an unprecedented non-stop flight from New London, Conn., to Boston—approximately 90 miles.

It was an aeronautical sensation. Today he lives in a turreted house in a spur of the White Mountains and follows the bent of his creative mind in his laboratory.

Life Dedicated to Aviation Sandwiched in those years is a thrilling story of an experimental scientist and a life dedicated to aviation.

On the eve of this war, Atwood in his mountain retreat was experimenting with a formula for producing a superior type plastic wood. Out of his laboratory came a complete, easily carried, airplane wing of pressed wood. He dumped it into his empty swimming pool and left it there through a rigorous New England winter, through a rainy spring and a burning summer.

When Atwood lifted the wing out of the pool a year later it was as sound as the day he threw it in—not a sign of warping.

Visitors were invited to jump on the wing surface, to strike it with a sledge-hammer, and abuse it any way they saw fit. The wing withstood the most violent assault.

Then came the war. Military men sought planes and more planes. Workmen stood at their machines ready to roll out aircraft in mass volume. It was then Atwood flew to Washington with his blueprints.

Washington Not Interested He assured defense experts that, given tools and machines, he could

Russia Develops the Aerial Train

Russia has long been active in glider meets and glider races, which are extremely popular there, several world records having been established. Eleven gliders are shown in tow of a twin-motored plane, forming an aerial train which could be used for war purposes. Germany's victory in Crete was made possible largely through the use of glider-borne troops.

stamp out standard pursuit trainer planes as fast as a toy factory rattles out tin soldiers.

Somehow Atwood was lost in the shuffle. Perhaps this plane, designed for pleasure flying, could not be adapted in a period of swiftly changing military design. Perhaps Atwood's idea was overlooked or dismissed as too experimental.

Then too there was no structural weakness. The Atwood plane can take more abuse than a metal plane of its size. But once damaged it can't be repaired. If a wingtip shears off, the entire moulded assemblage has to be scrapped.

But after the war is over and the day of the family plane arrives Atwood's plane may become the "lumber lizzie" of the air. The tall, spare inventor believes that it's plane can be manufactured and marketed for about half the cost of the average automobile.

There were 965 towns between 5,000 and 10,000 according to the 1940 census, and their combined population was 6,681,894. In 1930 there were 851 such places with a population of 5,897,156.

MIDDLETOWN SPRINGS, Vt.—The Rev. Arthur W. Childs, the new minister at the Community church here, is the seventh gener-

FARMERS APPROVE QUOTAS ON WHEAT

Marketing quotas on the 1941 wheat crop were approved overwhelmingly by the nation's wheat growers in the first national wheat referendum in history. Elmer F. Kruse, Ohio AAA chairman, announced this week.

Despite an unfavorable vote in Ohio, sufficient majorities were obtained in western wheat states to overcome the Ohio deficit. Complete state returns show 15,533 farmers favoring quotas and 16,938 opposed.

Approval of wheat quotas by more than 80 per cent of the nation's growers assures wheat farmers of an average wheat loan rate of 95 cents a bushel. The Ohio loan rate may be somewhat higher. In addition, all cooperating farmers are eligible to receive payments totaling 18 cents a bushel on the normal yield of their allotments.

Wheat marketing quotas now go into effect as the 1941 crop is harvested. Farmers may market or feed the entire production of the AAA wheat allotment for the farm without penalty. Production of wheat above allotments may be stored at 60 per cent of the cooperator's loan rate. Any wheat sold or fed above the allotment is subject to a penalty of approximately 48 cents a bushel. Farmers with 15 acres or less of wheat are not affected by marketing quotas.

It's Bob Feller's Turn To Pitch So Indians Forget 14-1 Bump

SECOND ROUND OF OPEN TOURNAMENT STARTS; SHUTE LOW

Twenty-to-One Shot Surprised Experts; Only 2 Golfers Below Par

FORT WORTH, Tex., June 6.—Battered in the opening round, pursuers of the National Open golf championship staggered through the holes today for another tussle with Colonial Club's par.

All alone stood quiet little Denny Shute, sole man to master the course. Shute, two-time winner of the P. G. A. championship, carved a 36-23—59 to beat par 35-35—70 in yesterday's first round.

Overlooked by selectors who left him a 20-1 shot, Shute found the links a friend because of his monotonously straight game.

Only two players equalled par—Vic Ghezzi and Lanky E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, with identical scores of 35 on each nine.

Bunched behind the leaders with 71's were Gene Kunes of Philadelphia, former Canadian Open champion; Harold (Jug) McSpaden; Lawson Little, defending champion; Dick Metz, and Jack Ryan of Louisville, Ky.

Seven Turn in 72

Sharing 72's were Henry Ransom, local pride; Clayton Heafner; Amateur Harry Todd of Dallas; Bunny Torpey of Dodson, Mo.; Ted Kroll of New Hartford, N. Y.; Bill Kaiser of Louisville, Ky., and Johnny Morris of Tuscaloosa, Ala.

The rest of the field sagged. Byron Nelson, Paul Runyan, Horton Smith, Craig Wood, Lloyd Mangrum and Chick Harbert were among the 73 shooters.

Den Hogan, Gene Sarazen and Ed Dudley checked in with 74; John Bull, Tony Penna and Jimmy Demaret, 75; Sam Snead, Johnny Goodman and Billy Burke, 76, and Henry Picard, 77.

Goldball Las Sad 79
Ralph Goldball, who sprinted in as a hot favorite in the final days before the tourney started, had a sad 79, Lloyd Gullickson of Hartsville, C. had an 84.

Today's round was to eliminate all but the low 60 scorers and ties. Tomorrow comes the climactic 36-hole final.

Because of yesterday's soaring scores, the consensus among pros was that 286 would win. A record-breaking opening day crowd of 8,000 watched the play.

BATTLING RED SOX MOVE UP TO THIRD

Go From Sixth Place Nine Days Ago To Three Games From Tribe

(By Associated Press)
Recognition already has been given the Philadelphia Athletics as a late-blooming miracle of the spring, but the A's should move over to make room for the Boston Red Sox.

Joe Cronin's gilt-edged American leaguers have done a lot of aimless wandering, some of it in the second division, since winning five in a row at the start of the season.

Just nine days ago they slipped to sixth place, the mighty Jimmie Fox bunched himself because of a batting slump, and the future was clouded with uncertainty.

Five-Game Winning Streak
Yet today they are up in third place with a brand-new five-game winning streak and are only three games behind the pace-maker Cleveland Indians, whom they valiantly defeated yesterday, 14-1.

Mickey Harris, the 23-year-old New York City southpaw who is about to be drafted into the army, has provided perhaps the biggest spark. Yesterday he smothered the Indians with six-hit pitching.

It was the worst rout of the year for the Indians, who didn't score until the eighth and wouldn't be in first place today except that the Athletics took care of the Chicago White Sox, 9-3.

The Detroit Tigers took a ragged 5-4 decision from the New York Yankees in 10 innings.

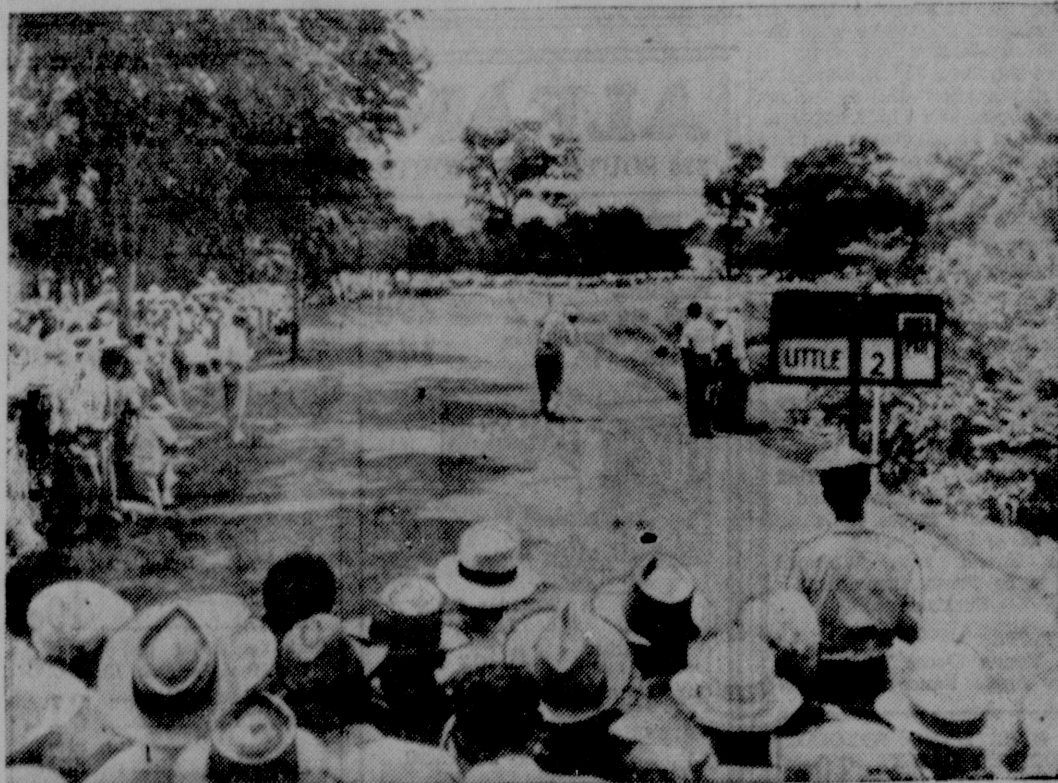

The St. Louis Browns sent Luke Sewell off to a good start as manager by whipping the Washington Senators, 4-2, for a sweep of their three-game series.

Rain washed out the National league program.

Distance Quality of Golf Balls To Be Limited By Association

By LAWTON CARVER, International News Service Sports Editor.

NEW YORK.—The possibility that golf ball manufacturers will get their product up to a point of perfection whereby some of the bigger sluggers would be able to drive it a mile and conceivably cause rebuilding of courses in keeping with such an extreme situation, has caused the United States Golf association to begin plans for limiting the distance qualities of the balls in use beginning Jan. 1, 1942.

Thorough tests with elaborate equipment will be utilized in the meantime to get a fixed measure on actual performance, and, in the words of the officials, "to limit the flight of the ball so that it will not be any longer than the so-called championship ball."

No Limitation Now
Up to now the only limitation against rabbit spheroids has been loosely covered by the following excerpt from the rules:

"The weight of the ball shall not be greater than 1.62 ounces, avoirdupois, and the size not less than 1.68 inches in diameter."

However, besides writing in that rule when the ball was enlarged a few years ago, the officials added a few lines of warning to the effect that they "will take whatever step they think necessary to limit the power of the ball with regard to distance, should any ball of greater power be introduced."

And that's what they are going to work on now—curbing the power of the ball before every shot will be an out of bounds into the adjoining country. Before anything is done, the tests will be carried out with the various balls now in use and balls that can't meet the requirements will be automatic null-and-voids. This may also end the perpetual quest for new elements to put in the center of the ball. Up to now they have included just about everything except a New England boiled dinner.

The golf association speaks as follows on the situation: "Limiting performance will, it is hoped, accomplish several objectives which the association has long had in mind and which should be of benefit to the average golfer, as follows:

"1. It should check further out-moding of golf courses as regards length. Thus, it should prevent clubs (and, therefore, their individual members) from having to pay more for golf on the score of redesigning and lengthening courses, which in the past has sometimes required purchase of more land, payment of larger taxes, and increased expense for course maintenance.

"2. It should restrict the distance walked and the time required to play a round of golf to the point of the player's comfortable endurance.

"3. It should result in greater emphasis on individual playing skill by promoting uniformity in the manufactured elements of the game.

"4. It should tend to standardize golf and golf courses by controlling a factor which, if not controlled could distort the whole game as now known.

"Previously, in trying to reach these objectives, the association's executive committee at one time considered adopting rigid specifications for all component parts and construction of the ball, as is done in some other sports. However, this approach was abandoned for many reasons, one of which was that it might tend to stifle beneficial developments in the ball. For example, it is conceivable that a ball could be made of materials other than those now commonly used and that such ball might be superior in some qualities to the present average ball and might be sold at lower cost. Obviously, prevention of such a situation would have been detrimental to the game."

So the association arranged for necessary mechanical equipment to work strictly on the distance qualities of that little pill and will have something in a few months. Who knows, they may yet figure out some way to make it go straight for those of us who can't do it ourselves.

MULLINS, TRADES CLASS WIN OVER CHINA, RECREATION

Leaders Continue Winning Streak with Eight-Run Attack

Holding the Salem China to two hits, Mullins last night pounded out eight runs to the Pottery one to continue undefeated in the first round of Class A play.

In the heavy scoring fourth inning Mullins put three singles, a triple, and an error together for four runs, while Mike Guappone's homer with one on in the fourth added two more. Stratton, with three hits in three trips to the plate, turned in the best batting performance.

The Trades Class scored two runs in the first inning, two more in the second, and one in the third before coasting on to a win over the Recreation, 5-1. Cameron paced the Trades Class attack with three hits in four trips to the plate. The Recreation went scoreless for three innings until Schaffer, who had been walked, advanced on a single by Brown and then scored on another by Kelley.

In the Church league the Y. P. C. C. whipped together six hits, seven walks, and two errors to turn out seven runs to three for St. Paul. Walker limited St. Paul to three hits.

More Night Games Sought As Defense Keeps Fans Occupied

(By International News Service)
NEW YORK.—How big is night baseball and how big is it going to be?

That's a question which will be hotly debated before the season is much older and on the answer may depend the success or failure of the experiment introduced by L. S. Balta, ss (Larry) MacPhail at Cincinnati only a few years back. The success of the game to date has been a tremendous compliment to MacPhail's judgment, but, like every other thing else, the night game now faces an over-dose of attention.

Several club owners have been hollering that the number of night games should be increased from seven to ten or 15 per season. They claim that the defense program makes it impossible for many of the fans to attend as many day games as formerly.

It is a most peculiar coincidence that the owners who have discovered this have poor ball clubs and sad treasuries. While it is only logical for them to beef about their lack of attendance and seek means to get their ledgers in order, it is a dangerous practice to ask for uncurtailed night ball.

Where to Stop?
Fifteen games per season, if O. K'd at the major league meetings this year, would lead to requests for 20 next year and so forth until some bright young man would suggest playing all major league games at night.

MacPhail, who should know, demands that a unanimous vote of all club presidents be required before any change on the limit of seven is light games per season be permitted for the National league.

And as long as he is in the league he promises to provide the vote against any increase.

In the American league Bill D. Witt of the Browns was granted permission for 15 night games last year. They wanted the same privilege again this time and had Connie Mack of the Athletics interested in a similar request. Judge Kenesaw M. Landis intervened at the league pow-wow in December and vetoed the idea.

Still a Novelty
Here's the reason too many night games would undo all the good the idea has done: Night ball is a novelty—once the novelty is exaggerated or lost—you have to find new means of making the game attractive. This has been proved in the minors where the night schedule was soon augmented with potato sack races, bank night, bingo and Shannon, 1b which all but dwarfed the main attraction of the evening, the ball game.

If that kind of super-ballyhoo is

FIREBALL ACE TO TRY FOR SEASON'S TWELFTH VICTORY

Will Attempt to Stop Philly, Now Hottest Team In League

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, June 6.—The time the Indians won a ball game without Bob Feller was May 24th against St. Louis.

Since that date the ace fireballer has notched three victories to run his season total to 11. With the rest of his pitching staff coming apart at the seams, Manager Roger Peckinpaugh called on Bob today to make it an even dozen.

Philadelphia's Athletics, currently the hottest team in the American league, provided the opposition and sent Johnny Babich to the hill for the opener of a four-contest series.

Cleveland, which still leads the league by 13 percentage points, has played only one game since Feller beat New York last Monday. Everyone around here is trying to forget that one.

It happened yesterday. Boston's sluggers, worn out from blasting 16 hits, staggered off the field with a 14-to-1 victory.

Rout Milner First
Al Milner started on the mound for the Indians and lasted not quite three innings. The Red Sox continued battling practice against Joe Heving and Cal Dorsett. Kenny Jundies escaped the fury of the Boston batsmen—probably because he pitched only the ninth and the visitors were hit-weary by that time.

The Indians collected only six safe blows off the southpaw slants of Mickey Harris. Cleveland pushed over its sole run in the eighth on two walks. Jeff Heath's single and an error.

Philadelphia plays a single game here tomorrow and a double-header Sunday.
